The World Famous Party

Your reputation of planning the best parties in the world has led the North American Explorers Society to ask you to plan the party of the century! This party will feature some of the most famous explorers of all time (and by all time we mean all time!).

Task-
For this project you will be planning a dinner party for five of the most famous explorers in world history. You get to choose the five explorers to invite to your party. This project will have three phases; a Power Point slide show, a dinner menu with a budget, and a presentation to the class.

Power Point
For this portion of your project you will choose five explorers and create a short bio-paragraph for each one. You will need a title slide, one slide per explorer, and a conclusion slide. The explorer slides must have a picture of your explorer, a "perfect paragraph" style biography highlighting where this explorer comes from and what they are famous for. Each explorer slide must also include why this person was invited to your party. The Power Point must be at least seven slides.

Dinner Menu-
As the party planner your are in charge of planning the menu for the dinner. A good party will make every guest feel at home. To do this your menu must include a dish (side, main, appetizer, dessert, or drink) that is specific to each explorer's home country. You will have a budget for this task of $150. You will need to use the grocery store advertisements to discover how much your dinner will cost. Use the budget worksheet to show how much each dish will cost, and your total amount spent.

Class Presentation-
The final part of this project will be presenting your party to the class. You will need to give your slideshow presentation to the class, and present your dinner menu. You will need to give your presentation from notes and not read your power point directly to the class.
